

Transitioning to Distance Learning

In mid-March James, a high school senior, had to transition from attending school to completing school work through the Duval County Public School's new distance learning program. With the use of an iPad he is able to complete all of his school assignments while staying safe at his group home. Staff at the house have worked hard to ensure James has a structured school day that includes reading, math, and life skills. Unfortunately, James was not able to experience the end of the school year activities or attend prom but the staff made sure he was able to enjoy a fun evening of music that included a red carpet. Thank you to our amazing staff that have helped him stay safe while completing this school year. We wish James and all of the the Class of 2020 our congratulations as they celebrate with virtual graduation ceremonies this May!

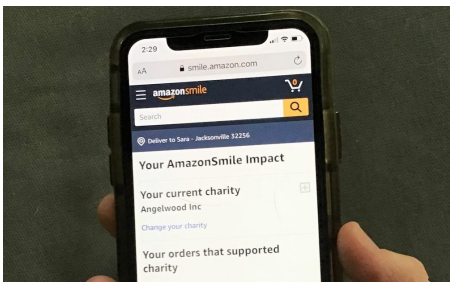

May 5th is #GivingTuesdayNow

#GivingTuesdayNow is a special global day of giving in response to the challenges we all face due to COVID 19. We are excited to announce that one of our generous donors has offered to match the first $1,000 of donations from now through Tuesday! We know that everyone has unique circumstances right now, so if you are able to give, thank you, and if not, thank you for being part of the incredible fabric that makes up our Angelwood community! Because of you, we are able to stay home while still being connected to family and one another. We are able to continue distance learning, life skills, and try new recipes in the kitchen. We are able to enjoy the homes and yards so many volunteers have helped to improve and maintain. Because of you we have been able to stay safe. Thank you for being part of the Angelwood family. We are looking forward to the time we can gather with you in person again!
